Mike Carson CSIFT Testimonial

"In college, I only attended a handful of IFTSA meetings. Most of those were during my senior year, when I started to freak out about not having a job secured after graduation.

At Chicago Section IFT's student night the spring of that year, I had the chance to network with several companies, one of which gave me my first job. It was also the first time I had been in a room of successful people with the same food science background as me.

The whole point of volunteering my time with IFT is to help recreate that great experience I had, specifically with students and new professional members."
