

University of Illinois Student Chapter of IFT

The Association of Food Technologists is the University of Illinois Student Chapter of IFT. The club has a goal to foster a close relationship among the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition students and faculty at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. In addition, the club focuses on connecting students with companies and professionals within the food industry. The Association of Food Technologists accomplishes these goals through activities such as monthly meetings, informational sessions, company tours, social events, community involvement and charity fundraising. If you have further questions about the Association of Food Technologists feel free to contact the club president, David Bloom, at djbloom2@illinois.edu.

The Association of Food Technologists (AFT) recently published an AFT cookbook, which contains a collection of recipes ranging from appetizers to desserts, contributed by students and faculty members of the Food Science and Human Nutrition Department and the University of Illinois. Please support our club by purchasing one or more of our cookbooks. To order, simply send an email with your name, address, and number of cookbooks you would like to aftcookbook@gmail.com. The cookbook costs $10 per copy. Purchasing a copy is a great way to support the student chapter.

Cash or check can be sent to:

AFT
905 South Goodwin
260 Bevier Hall, MC-182
Urbana, IL 61801

