Are you interested in getting the greatest educational value from the Wellness 11 conference? Consider attending the Pre-Wellness 11 Short Course, "Food Science for the Non-Food Scientist," March 21-22, 2011, at the InterContinental Chicago O'Hare in Rosemont, Illinois.

IFT's most-requested course will deepen your understanding about the basic principles and processes involved in food science. You will:

- Identify the ways that food science impacts and supports various aspects of non-scientific work
- Develop a common food science vernacular
- Gain greater knowledge of the importance of food safety, basic regulatory issues, and food science trends

Register for both the Short Course and Wellness 11 by March 1 and save $200! View our video to see why Wellness Conference attendees return year after year to this unparalleled event.
