Carly Rosenberg
Awarded the 2012 University of Illinois Baldwin Turner Scholarship
Sponsored by CSIFT

Carly Rosenberg, a freshman in Food Science and Human Nutrition at the University of Illinois, is the 2012 Recipient of the Jonathan Baldwin Turner Scholarship sponsored by the Chicago Section IFT.

Carly was officially recognized at the annual College of Agricultural, Consumer and Environmental Sciences (ACES) Jonathan Baldwin Turner Scholarship Banquet, held November 30; Mike Wanous, representing CSIFT at the Banquet, presented her with the award.

Concentrating in Dietetics, she aspires to be a certified diabetes educator and investigate treatments for diabetic children and adults.

Carly is gifted, capable, and well deserving of this honor. While attending high school (Adlai E. Stevenson High School, Buffalo Grove, IL), Carly was a teen staff leader with Operation Snowball, a youth empowerment program. She was a musical performer with the Stevenson Showcase, an anchor for her high school radio and news network, and played intramural flag football for three years.

Outside of school, Carly was vice president of Community Service and Social Action, and was recording secretary and vice president of communications for the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization. She also was a music leader for Shir Hadash Reconstructionist Synagogue. Carly is a James Scholar and is a member of Illini Hillel, Volunteer Illini and Wishmakers. She is also a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. Carly plans to gain additional experience through the Student Dietetic Association and volunteering at the McKinley Health Center.

This marks the thirty-fourth year of the merit-based Jonathan Baldwin Turner Scholarships awarded to outstanding students entering ACES at the University of Illinois. Carly is the twenty-fifth awardee sponsored by the CSIFT – an accomplishment the Section can be proud of.
